The platform is a brainchild of the renowned Inspirational Speaker & Entrepreneur Sujit Lalwani and has been brought to reality by the terrific team of IU. The team has run pilots at various levels from Schools & Colleges to Companies. Having seen the success of the model of combining individual growth with tackling of problems of society Team IU has given its life to make i3 come to reality.

i3 has been brought to life to empower the massive force of YOUTH by helping them get direction from established experts from various fields; help them achieve terrific personal growth through the TAKE AWAY PROJECTS; eventually help the society progress leaps and bounds through the impact targeted by this organization.

Who will be the Counsellors?

If this question at all means the names of the counsellors, then, it definitely is a total surprise every single weekend. IU has a reputation of delivering more than what it promises and it shall keep upto, when it comes to i3 in much bigger ways. The Counsellors will address the conference's agenda and share insights on life as a whole too.

The delegates are allowed to network with the counsellor and hence the relationship continues for those who wish to seek mentorship in the long term.

Can we Back out or quit?

I3 is not meant for quitters under any circumstances. We want people to look forward to Life as much as we want them to look forward to i3. There is no reason for quitting and even if there is, there is no option in i3 created for such people with such genuine reasons. Once you have decided to make the payment the only way out is to make the most of this platform.

The price for what is being offered is peanuts and the decision is not being taken at gun-point and hence we believe in relieving ourselves of the quitters before they could even jump in.

What if the auditorium is far?

There cannot be any corner of Bangalore that could be far enough not to get reached within 90 minutes of travel on weekdays and less than 60 minutes of travel on Sundays. Since the conferences are going to happen on Sundays you could buy 2 hours additional for I3 from your life and assume that this event would last 5 hours in total every week. If it is worth it, it is worth the travel.

We appreciate this question but definitely not more than we appreciate the quality of impact I3 is capable of having on individuals. There are people willing to travel districts every single Sunday as long as this is going to transform their lives. We hope the distance factor won't play a role in your decision making. There is quote that goes like this "To go the distance, you must be willing to go the distance.."

Do you have a question to ask?

MENTORS

We believe, if every delegate who is willing to grow, is supported, guided and shown the right direction, the World will see leaders with exceptional abilities and talents in no time. And hence, i3 brings the process of mentoring into the journeys of people by introducing mentors into their life.

Mentors give dedicated guidance and support to the delegates to bring out the best talents in them while the delegates execute projects / tasks week after week.

The delegates are given projects/volunteering opportunities with NGOs/CSRs and other social impact tasks to channelise their energy and make a better leader out of them. Week after week their impacts are recorded, and judged upon by a jury based on various parameters - impact, creativity, sectors covered, innovation are quite a few. Delegates also get a chance to be the Delegate of the Week and earn a list of rewards because of the activities done throughout the week.

Opportunities are plenty, Mentoring is our surety, Being a Performer is a Choice!
